4 TRUCK BANDITS ESCAPE

Hold Up Mail Truck,
Bind Driver, Flee
With $129,000

FALL RIVER, Mass., Jan. 23.—Four bandits held up a United States mail truck today, bound its driver and escaped with registered mail which police said contained approximately $129,000 in banknotes and silver.

The shipment was being taken to a Fall River bank from a train which previously had arrived from Boston.

Postal authorities at Boston confirmed the report of police here and said the money had been sent from the Federal Reserve bank in Boston.

Two men with revolvers held up the small mail truck in the northern section of the city and forced its driver and lone occupant, Herbert B. Reid, 43, to enter a sedan in which two other bandits were seated.

One of the hold-up men drove the mail truck across the Taunton river into Swansea while Reid, tied hand and foot with adhesive tape, was forced into the rear seat of the bandit car and blindfolded.

Reid, in the employ of the postal department for more than 20 years, said he attempted to catch a glimpse of the bandits from beneath the blindfold but was ordered: "Don't look at me or I'll let you have it."

He said a gun was held at his ribs by men on either side of him. The key to the rear door of the truck was taken from Reid's pocket and the bandits opened the truck, took the mail and disappeared in a third car after leaving Reid tied up in the machine into which they first forced him.

It was believed at least five men were involved in the holdup because of the fact that two cars were used.

Police of Massachusetts and Rhode Island spread a dragnet about roads in Southern Massachusetts but no trace of the bandits was found after a search of more than an hour.

Plays Hookey and Lands In Hospital

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 23.—Instead of going to school, 8-year-old Ray Spaulding went to the grist mill to see the big stone wheels go round.

While he watched an explosion occurred and a piece of metal struck Ray in the forehead. He was taken to a hospital.

NEW SALES TAX STAMPS ON SALE

Two Banks Get Supplies;
Sales Made This Week Exempt

The new sales tax stamps went on sale today at both the First National and the Farmer's National banks here. Each bank received a total shipment of a little over 300,000 stamps yesterday from Columbus.

The supply at each bank includes in quantity: 150,000 one-cent stamps, 80,000 two-cent stamps, 20,000 six-cent stamps, 10,000 nine-cent stamps, 3,000 fifteen-cent stamps, 300 sixties, 600 of $1.50 denomination and 200 of $3.50 value.

Both institutions pointed out the necessity of vendors bringing their vendors license with them to insure proper issuance of the stamps. The banks also requested that persons applying for the stamps fill out applications in triplicate form. Application blanks are available at the windows.

Sales This Week Exempt
Sales made or honestly contracted before the effective date of the act, which is next Sunday, are not subject to the tax, regardless of when the merchandise is delivered or paid for.

If a bona fide contract for sale is made this week, with the merchandise to be delivered at a later date, or to be paid for on an installment basis, this will be exempt. Where the amount involved is in excess of $100, the vendor is required to file with the state tax commission a sworn statement outlining such a contract.

Retail dealers who sell merchandise on relief orders are not required to charge a sales tax, according to a ruling made by the State Relief commission, notice of which has just been received by State Examiner C. V. Walker, attached to the County Relief Administration office in Lisbon.

However, in the case of clients receiving cash, either from direct relief or through the Works division, and they in turn make the purchase, such sales and purchases will be subject to the sales tax.

New Guinea Mining Experiences Told

Tales of gold mining in British New Guinea, a wild, cannibal-inhabited country, were unfolded before members of the Salem Rotary club at its weekly meeting in the Memorial building Tuesday noon by William T. Watson, a New Zealander who has traveled the world over.

Watson, introduced by Dr. Guy Byers, is now engaged in gold mining in the sparsely settled region of New Guinea. The speaker spoke mainly of his experience there out-of-the-way places, during his world travels. During the war he served with the British army.

Storm Sewer Job Started In Lisbon

LISBON, Jan. 23.—The first FERA project to be started here this year was announced today, when 25 men were given employment on a storm sewer project.

The cost has been estimated at $5,696.88, of which the village of Lisbon will spend $1,691.32 for material, and the bulk of this money will go for the purchase of pipe. The labor charge has been estimated at over $3,400, all of which is from FERA funds.

TRACES LADDER WOOD TO HOME OF HAUPTMANN

Witness Says Board Fits

BRUNO MAY TAKE
STAND TOMORROW

State Expects To Close
Late Today; Defense
To Take Week

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 23.—An authoritative source estimated today that Bruno Richard Hauptmann would take the stand in his own defense the first thing tomorrow.

The state's kidnapping-murder case against him was expected to be ended early this afternoon, leaving the remainder of the day for a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal, and for defense opening statements.

The same source said the defense would complete its case by next Thursday, requiring only one week to answer the state's two weeks of evidence.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 23.—The wood in the Lindbergh kidnap ladder came from the home of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, a government expert testified today.

Arthur J. Koehler of Madison, Wis., an expert on the identification of wood for the government, followed a string of witnesses to the stand in Hauptmann's trial for the kidnapping and murder of Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., and added to their tracing a final conclusion that the ladder came from Hauptmann's home.

After acknowledging that he had examined an upright from the ladder known as "rail 16," Koehler said:

"I found the nail holes in the attic joists corresponded and the grain of the wood was the same as the board there."

The board he referred to was an exhibit in the evidence. It came from the attic of Hauptmann's Bronx home and had been next to the place from which the state charges the ladder upright was sawn.

Defense pique at the testimony was manifested by Frederick A. Pope of defense counsel. He leaped up.

Demand for Dog Tag Shows Big Increase

LISBON, Jan. 23.—The demand for dog licenses in this county so far this month far exceeds the sale of tags for the same period last year. It was said today at the office of County Auditor John H. Irwin.

So far, over 4,400 licenses have been sold and distributed, against a record of less than 2,000 for the same term a year ago.

Hundreds Here As Farmers Open Five-Grange Institute

Several hundred persons filled the Memorial building gymnasium today as the annual Salem Farmers Institute opened a four-day session with William H. Beachler, of Gratts, and Mrs. Neal Wyatt Kyle of Somerset, as principal speakers. Price Coe is chairman.

The institute opened at 10 a. m. today, adjourning at 12 noon for lunch. The afternoon session was to get underway at 1:30 p. m. Many of the farmers carried their own basket lunches and the Memorial hall took on an air of picnic atmosphere during the noon hour.

Value of Child Training
Both Mr. Beachler and Mrs. Kyle spoke at the opening session. Mr. Beachler, speaking on "What Makes A Community Great," stressed the value of child training and the importance of schools and churches in the growth of a fine community.

"It is easier and better to build children than to mend men," he said.

Mrs. Kyle outlined the various means of attaining ones goal in her talk, "Up The Steps To Success." Perry Grange had charge of the morning program.

This afternoon's session was in charge of Mt. Nebo grange. Special music was to be provided in addition to addresses by both Mrs. Kyle and Mr. Beachler. "Power of Words" was Mrs. Kyle's subject while Mr. Beachler was to speak on "Do Your Duty And A Little More."

Ann Harding Silent On Husband's Plea To Take Her Child

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—Ann Harding, blonde star of the screen, made no comment today on her former husband's charge that she was not "a fit and proper person to have the custody, care or control of a minor child."

The star's ex-husband, Harry Bannister, writer and actor, made the charge in a complaint filed yesterday in the superior court in which he sought custody of their six-year old daughter, Jane.

The document made no specific charges against Miss Harding. Only a few weeks ago, Harding was granted sole custody of her daughter by a Nevada court, which modified her divorce decree granted May 6, 1932. At the time of the divorce, Bannister was to have custody of the little girl for two months of each year.

The main part of Bannister's complaint was taken up with an attack on the validity of the Reno divorce. He contended the actress was not, then, nor ever has been a resident of Reno.

Huey Returns Home To End Controversy

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 23.—The sudden return of Huey Long to Louisiana from Washington was disclosed today as an effort to broadcast "a mutual ending of controversies" in his empire, which has recently been racked by a minority revolt against his "dictatorship."

Long and J. H. Hilton, president of the Standard Oil company Louisiana, issued a joint statement last night, declaring there was "no further controversy between the refineries and state authorities" over Long's recent tax on refining.

NEW COLD WAVE COMING; FLOODS MENACING LIVES

More Than 70 Deaths In Wake of Snow, Ice,

BIG LIVESTOCK
LOSS IN SOUTH

Lives and Property Are Menaced By Serious Floods

New cold waves were reported sweeping down from the north on the mid-west and parts of the Rocky Mountain area today while the number of fatalities grew and other sections of the nation were beset by floods, fog and snow.

Temperatures had dropped as low as 42 below zero at Hibbing, Minn., as the cold blast began spreading southward into the territory, where most of the deaths have occurred. Another cold wave was advancing on Montana, where three deaths were attributed to last week's storm.

Along the Coldwater river in Take, Tunica and Quitman counties in Mississippi flood waters which reached a depth of from 15 to 20 feet in some parts had driven hundreds of persons from the delta homes. Property damage was heavy and fears were expressed that there had been some loss of life. Mississippi National Guardsmen aided in rescue work.

Floods Menacing
Serious floods also were menacing life and property in Western Washington, where a thaw sent rivers out of their banks, while in the east snow and colder weather were predicted, with lower temperatures also forecast for the southwest, including Florida.

Untold damage was done to crops, livestock and transportation systems as the bitter cold dipped into the deep south, with a snow reported yesterday in Florida, Louisiana and Alabama.

A summary of conditions showed: Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of damage done in the Western Washington floods, with traffic and communications hampered and considerable loss to shipping by heavy gales.

Blizzards in Manitoba, Canada, blocking communications and playing havoc with train schedules.

McAdoo said he had not been in favor of the Washington naval treaty for some years because of the bonds it placed on the United States.

The total sum set aside from the general fund is $18,132.90 and the appropriation from the water works fund is $12,510, making a grand total of $28,642.90.

"Trouble is," said Postmaster James Gilmore, "we have no half-pennies, and therefore we give a half-cent stamp."

Notice has been received here that the postal department proposes to issue stamps of the four and one-half cent variety. In addition, stamps of the value of 16 and 19 cents are to be issued soon.

The 16 and 19-cent stamps will be used for parcel post, the 18-cent stamp for registered mail.

Investigation of Police Department By Local Officials Seen

Developments on the requested police investigation and removal of Patrolman Homer Veon from the Salem police department failed to materialize when Mayor Norman Phillips, Safety Director Homer Silver, Police Chief Ralph N. Stoffer and City Solicitor Lozier Caplan met Tuesday night in Chief Stoffer's office at city hall to discuss the situation.

It was understood that Stoffer had asked for Veon's removal. Officer Veon was present at part of the meeting.

Umstead Questioned
Kenneth Umstead, arrested yesterday by police in connection with the solving of two Salem robberies, the lot of which was found hidden in Patrolman Veon's residential garage, was taken to Lisbon this morning by Chief Stoffer for further questioning by Prosecuting Attorney George L. Lafferty and the chief.

It was hoped that Umstead, who may be returned to the Mansfield reformatory as a parole violator, would reveal the real information which Chief Stoffer seeks in connection with the robberies.

A grand jury investigation into the operation of the Salem police department may be requested, it was learned today from authoritative sources. The chief was still in conference with the prosecuting attorney at noon today.

Mayor Norman Phillips, when contacted today, said "he had nothing to say on the affair at present, and wouldn't until Safety Director Silver had taken action." The meeting of last night has been continued.

Solicitor Caplan said he understood "that an investigation of the police department would be made."

Lake Held in Lisbon

Victor Lake, 27, son-in-law of Patrolman Veon, who was bound over to the Columbiana county grand jury when he pleaded guilty to charges of receiving and concealing stolen property, was held at Lisbon today under two $1,000 bonds.

Lake, in testimony given before Prosecuting Attorney Lafferty and Chief of Police Stoffer, admitted his guilt in connection with the robbery of the Golden Eagle clothing store last July and also that of the Salem Lunch in December.

Shortly after being arrested last Sunday, Lake implicated Kenneth Umstead and two other persons in the robberies. One was called "a guy from Akron" while the other was named specifically. Police, however, withheld his name, since they believe him innocent.

Full investigation is being made, however.

Ohio Safety Group Elects Lee Palmer

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23.—Lee B. Palmer, of Pataskala, will head the Ohio Safety council as president, following his election yesterday by representatives of various safety groups.

Texas Romance

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 23.—It looked early yesterday morning in Cincinnati in all that snow like I wasn't going to be able to make a worthy benefit here last night, but the air liner was all ready to make it, weather or no weather. We took off, and it soon cleared so we had a fine trip in here.

This is historic old Austin, the capital. When you want of excitement read the history of Texas. It's just many with romance.

Here is Jack Garner's first stepping stone and, by the way, did you notice that President Roosevelt endorsed him Monday morning, the same morning I had a little oration on him.

When you are thinking with Roosevelt you are thinking in pretty fast company.

CONDEMNED BY INFERENCE

Ohio, one of several states concerned because their governors released a few men from prison, is condemning by inference the practice of pardon and parole. This is a tragic mistake.

Whether or not George White should have released certain persons from prison is a vexing question which will not be answered without a lot of disagreement and misunderstanding. Whether or not some prisoners could be released safely is another question.

It is not at issue, or shouldn't be. The parole system and the privilege of an executive pardon are not involved in what probably will turn out to be a political episode. Former Gov. White and his administration are the object of the inquiry. If paroles and pardons have been abused, they should not be condemned, but only those who have abused them.

Hysteria sometimes works when everything else fails. It has helped government in this country to convince certain notorious gunmen that their lives are going to be snuffed out to reestablish a sense of security among the people. But hysteria, being essentially unreasonable, never can be trusted.

It must not be allowed to affect one of the few important advances in penology, the privilege of parole. Politicians, their failings, their petty quarrels and their sometimes vicious disregard for even ordinary scruples must not be permitted to turn public favor against the only chance thousands of unfortunate men have to reclaim themselves—parole from prison before it is too late to start their lives anew.

IN DEFENSE OF ILLITERACY

A member of the Colorado legislature proposes an intelligence test for legislative candidates. They would be rated according to their grade, to help voters choose among them.

The proposal is bound to attract attention. If the Colorado lawmaker is thinking about the right kind of intelligence test, his idea is a good one. We refer to the kind which tries to show the presence of common sense, like knowing how to draw the spout on a teakettle, in contrast to a test consisting of questions on grammar, botany, literature, arithmetic and so forth.

Common sense is the legislative requirement most conspicuously absent in this representative democracy, common sense which has nothing to do with knowing the theories of Karl Marx, Gresham's law of money, the balance of international trade and the number of Americans over 40 years of age with beards. If Franklin D. Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson had taken more care to make sound common sense the first requirement of admittance for "brain trusters," the phrase would not have such an unpleasant meaning.

Figure out a way to close public offices to two types of persons, the thief and the fool, which includes a good many scholars with lots of information but no common sense, and the democracy will get along somehow. Of the two, furthermore, the fool is more dangerous. A thief can be caught and convicted. A fool, employing his claim on tolerance, may keep on going until he becomes a national figure. He may know everything, yet be unable to apply his information. Unfortunately, it takes time to discover his shortcomings.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

PALM BEACH, Jan. 23—In little more than a sleeper jump we live in a world of sun-glistened palms, dewy flowers and candy striped cabanas. The ocean at our doorstep shimmers away in aqua marine blue as far as the eye can see. This world dines in white flannels and chiffon in patios flaky with moonlight while New York shivers. Br-r-r!

A jewel box of luxury, Palm Beach sparkles most at luncheon time when the beach clubs become a peacock promenade, a glossary of the society columns come to life. It seems a place where money is of little consequence. The taxicab has no meter. You pay what the driver decides.

It is a bounty of leisure that spreads on deep cushioned divans and under beach umbrellas, undisturbed by economic upsets and thoughts of tomorrow. Palm Beach is end of the trail for the last of the Mohicans. They have been everywhere and seen everything. And now back in a show window of life.

Their routine is a treadmill grind. The morning plunge, a sprawl on the sands, the bedecking for lunch, stier a while, back to the surf, cocktails, dressing again for dinner, yawning over bridge and so to bed. This is the squirrelly life that more than triples population every winter.

Already the old rocking chair has me. And the sea air has the Boston. Their usual light napping has become dead to the world stretches of profound snoring. And right out on the verandah before all the people.

The flow past the verandah rockers is one of unending diversity. The new arrival whose face is puffed grotesquely by a too long stay in the sun. The machine husband who toddles in wake of the buxom grand dame with a loggnette. The flamboyantly pajamaed and chain cigarette smoking pippin. The blazer boy scuttling for a push chair companion.

when the moon swings high. The Katharine Hepburn imitator. Newly weds seeking to appear long established. Governesses and their rose-buds in loth cloths. Brazenly over-dressed hoty-toties with bright and wary eyes for the house detectives.

It was in Palm Beach, as I recall, that Bugs Baer's nipping and now veteran mot was born. Phoning the cashier at the end of his stay he trembled: "Please send up my bill and a fright wig." Not many hotels in America are more highly tariffed. Yet they have substantial alibis. Their investments are enormous and their season is top for about ten weeks. Not one, I am told, is paying dividends. Bell boys here belong to the roaming herd, swinging around the de luxe circuit—Newport, Saratoga, Santa Barbara, Del Monte, etc. Alert hops often make more than the managing directors. And a few have married Lady de Veres.

Many of the toniest visitors to Palm Beach, however, are not patrons of the flimsy inns. Hotels, generally speaking, are for what Sims's Variety terms mugs. For the ordinary fellow with a newly acquired Jeeves and the lady with a French maid who think they are giving the resort a shot of theta. Aged in the wood Palm Beachers are the owners of vast, terraced estates with winds of driveway leading to million dollar haciendas, private bathing beaches and pools that suggest the Grand Central. They arrive in special coaches that carry everything from the third assistant pantry-man to a Parisian hair dresser. Their servants are the pick of the world, regimented under an aristocratic chateleine who is sometimes paid $15,000 a year and keep Madame deals only with her. Thus vast housekeeping problems are reduced to a minimum.

And speaking of servants, I heard today the story of a Palm Beach matron's Chinese cook, Ling. Every afternoon before sundown he called at the nursery for the four-year-old child of the household and carried him piggy-back to a projecting rock in the sea. There with the child in his arms he stood statue-like for an hour, his eyes straining toward the East. After many weeks it was learned Ling had three youngsters in Canton he had not seen for several years. His daily devotion was a stoic's tribute to them. Manghan in miniature.

It's doubtless the life magnificent here. But necessity has made me one of the silly busy bees. And it's far too late to join the drones. A day or so of lolling and a telegram touches off something akin to the slight congestive chill. I have an idea it will be from back yonder in Times Square reading: "Don't hurry home. We have another boy."

The cry around the cab ranks, "Ship's in!" send a flurry of charioteers to the piers. Taximen have learned the biggest harvest is the disembarkation of an Atlantic liner. There are many reasons for this windfall. The hauls are generally far beyond the average and everybody will splurge for a taxi, even if they are going to the Bronx. Too, they tip more generously. Also there are the foreigners, not he; to the currency, who often hand a driver several times the customary tip. The unscrupulous cabmen have learned that in the excitement of landing voyagers seldom, if ever, offer protest over a few tricks with the meter.

THE STARS SAY

For Thursday, January 24

The planetary configurations bearing influence on mundane affairs on this day may be read as rather neutral, with things moving smoothly in accustomed grooves. However, there will be a fine spur to the faculties and forces, which should be taken advantage of to stimulate new plans and projects or engineer them into channels of constructive possibilities for the future. The mind especially will be found alert, keen and ingenious in the direction of practical arts and sciences.

If It Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of progress and prosperity, especially if they will turn their excellent faculties and energies into productive channels. They will find their abilities directed to spurts of achievements in many creative plans and projects for quick action and decision.

A child born on this day should be quick, keen, sharp-witted and with a fine mind for practical creative work in many directions, being also popular, friendly and easily successful.

Today

A Review of the Day's News

By Arthur Brisbane

GALLUP, N. M., Jan. 23.

THIS IS written between Flagstaff and Winslow, traveling along the high levels of Arizona, more than seven thousand feet above sea level. The hills and dark green trees are covered with snow. The sky is miraculously blue, the climate is worth more than all our gold and you ought to be told, once more, about these wondrous western lands of California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Colorado.

But Sunday was devoted to the great Boulder Dam canyon, where in about ten days water will start slowly rising in the gigantic reservoir, and all space must be devoted to that marvel of engineering science.

THE AUTOMOBILE trip to the dam from the writer's ranch at Hodge, Cal., and back, a run of about four hundred miles across part of California and Nevada, was made "comfortably" by "Jimmy" Dixon, of Los Angeles, in six hours. Every American may be proud of Boulder Dam, especially Mr. Ickes, secretary of the interior, in charge of the project, the "six companies," American contracting corporations that have combined to undertake the one hundred and sixty-five million dollar job, and F. T. Crowe, all American from the Northwest, general superintendent of the job.

The contractors agreed to finish not later than January 1, 1938, and pay a forfeit of nine thousand dollars "damages" for every day's delay. The work will be finished in July, this year, two and a half years ahead of time, the dam itself completed in thirty days, with water running into storage back of the dam within fifteen days. This extraordinary efficiency will mean millions for the government in increased and immediate receipts, and interest saved, but the contractors get no bonus to offset the "damage" clause.

Taxpayers will learn with joy that contracts already made for power with the city of Los Angeles, power companies of Southern California and others will pay for the dam, principal and interest within fifty years. It pays to improve the country.

MOST IMPRESSIVE, as you stand at the edge of the deep canyon, are the face of the giant dam structure, rising more than seven hundred and twenty-six feet from bed rock, and the faces of some old Sioux Indians, to whose ancestors this river once belonged.

Just above the dam, on government land, an inexhaustible bed of beautifully polished pebbles was found ready for the work.

Water will cover that deposit when the dam is filled, but it might be dredged for future work, when other dams are built higher up the river to use power generated above the Boulder level.

Bank Check Theft Causes Confusion

The theft of 5,000 "dud" bank checks, which did the thief no good but which caused the biggest "ball-up" in the history of the Federal Reserve bank of Cleveland, was disclosed today.

The majority of the checks were enroute to banks here in Salem, East Liverpool, Ravenna and other Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia cities of the Fourth district.

Disclosure of the theft, which occurred the night of Jan. 7, left 5,000 persons and corporations in embarrassing positions.

The theft took place when a mail sack containing various correspondence, including checks which had cleared through the Federal Reserve bank of Cleveland, and were enroute for collection to the various eastern Ohio banks against which they had been drawn, was stolen from the rumble seat of a coupe between the bank and the old Union station, Cleveland.

The Federal Reserve's one and only mail truck was laid up for repairs and in its absence an ordinary coupe was pressed into service. Because of the cramped space several mail sacks were stuffed into the rumble seat when the driver arrived at the station one was missing.

looking at work done by white men to harness their river and put it to work.

A fine face is that of the Sioux chief, nearly eighty years old. The racial stock in Asia that produced such a man might, with education and science back of it, come flying some day as Columbus came sailing, to take possession of these lands again, driving out effete whites, as those whites once drove out barbarian Indians.

(You will observe, perhaps with gratitude, that nothing is said this time about airplane protection).

THE OLD chief sees that the Colorado river, held by a coffer dam, far up in the river and forced to leave its natural bed, now flows through great tunnels in the solid rock on either side of the canyon, resuming its muddy course far below the dam, allowing the white men to work on dry land, that was once the river bed. Never again will the river choose its path.

Below the dam on the old river bed you see buildings for power development, where giant generators will produce one million eight hundred and thirty-five thousand horsepower, more than four times the power of Niagara.

Above the complicated machinery and the power houses will be erected, from wall to wall of the canyon, deeply anchored in the rock on each side, a protecting reinforced concrete roof, twenty-five feet thick, to be covered deeply with soil and gravel, fertile soil and growing grass, protecting the precious machinery from falling rock that might be shaken loose by earthquakes.

MEN ARE building there for one thousand years to come despite the fact that in a few centuries all this work may be obsolete, a sample of men's "primitive scientific work," and the earth's real power supply produced by harnessing the tides of the giant sun itself.

The wall of the dam six hundred and sixty feet thick at the base tapers off to forty-five feet in width at the top. Water pressure is greater at the bottom of the dam because of the weight of water above it.

In the wall and the power plant there have been used four million two hundred thousand cubic yards of concrete, and contractors will want to know that pebbles as large as nine inches in diameter are used in the mixture.

Just above the dam, on government land, an inexhaustible bed of beautifully polished pebbles was found ready for the work.

Water will cover that deposit when the dam is filled, but it might be dredged for future work, when other dams are built higher up the river to use power generated above the Boulder level.

Marasmus a Nutritional Disorder

I RECENTLY visited a home made unhappy because the young member of the family was confined to his bed. He was suffering from that wasting disease called marasmus, or "infantile atrophy." Fortunately, it is not a common ailment, and with prompt medical attention complete cure is possible.

The treatment of the diseases of childhood is constantly undergoing changes and in improvement. Continuous efforts are being made to discover cures and the means of preventing marasmus and similar disturbances. I am glad to say that as a result of our increased knowledge of nutrition, great strides have been made in curbing such diseases.

Faulty Eating Habits
As I have implied, marasmus is a nutritional disorder, although the disease is not confined to children who are underfed. In many instances it can be traced to an inherited weakened physical condition. The child loses weight and shows inadequate growth and development.

In the majority of cases the underlying cause can be traced to faulty or inadequate food. The child who does not receive well-balanced meals and foods rich in the necessary vitamins, is liable to suffer from this disorder. Chronic infections, faulty eating habits, lack of hygienic care, fresh air and sunshine are other contributing factors.

Prior to our present understanding of marasmus and its modern methods of treatment, the young sufferer remained a pathetic sight. He resembled a tiny, shriveled-up old man, the skin hanging in folds over the bones which were unusually prominent. As a rule the child was markedly underweight, with wrinkled face and sad expression. Today, the severe form answering to this description is rarely encountered.

Neglect Is Dangerous
Children who show any abnormality in normal growth and development are now given the very best of care and enjoy the benefits of modern scientific knowledge. The feeding of the young infant and growing child has been greatly simplified. It is no longer necessary to resort to complicated formulas and expensive medications.

But the danger of neglect still exists. As I have repeatedly pointed out, the value of the vital importance, of periodic visits to the doctor or health clinic cannot be overstated. Every child should have regular "check-ups" on height, weight, and physical development.

All physical defects and constitutional disorders should be recognized at an early age and given the necessary attention. Chronic disorders and persistent infections lead to marasmus and other nutritional disturbances. They are more easily prevented than cured.

Answers to Health Queries
R. S. Q.—What should a boy of 16, six feet three inches tall, weigh? A. He should weigh about 175 pounds for his age and height—this would be about average.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must get at the cause—there's no need of having a sawtooth complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the intestines, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c, 30c, 60c.

ENGLERT'S ELECTRIC & PLUMBING STORE

"THE LADY DANCES" by MARGE STANLEY

SYNOPSIS
Fired of the smugness and reflections of civilization, Mark
Talbot books passage on the S.S.
"Orient" hoping to find the adventure he craves in travel. His brother, John, pleads in vain
with him to remain home and settle down. At the dock, Mark's attention is drawn to an attractive girl who stares at him in a hostile way. Next day, Mark goes from deck to deck in search of her. He finds the girl in the stateroom, the same expression of helpless rebellion against something or someone on her face.
Mark learns from the captain
that her name is Vanya Pro-kova and that she is being deported from San Francisco to Honolulu.

CHAPTER III Scrapping Acquaintances

Mark smiled as he found the deck-chair to his right occupied by an elderly bearded gentleman whom he recognized as Professor Mac-Quane, one of the passengers placed at Mark's table. There was no sign of the blonde seeker after knowledge
nor her mother. The professor barely glanced up from his book to answer Mark's greeting; he had been a silent table companion, too, Mark recalled.

The following day had found him
a little irked by the daily routine of the voyage. He emerged on deck to find that the wispy clouds of the preceding evening had massed themselves into billowy white sky islands
thickened the deep blue of the heavens. The sun shone intermittently between them as they scudded
eastward toward America, already
nearly two thousand miles astern.
The wind had freshened out of the southwest, and the ocean of the peaceful name seemed bent on dis-proving its cognomen.

Mark managed a glimpse of the book in his neighbor's hand. It looked like it was indeed—the General Theory of Relativity by Albert Einstein! Mark sighed, and gave up all hopes of any conversation in that quarter. He stared out at the heaving expanse of threatening green water, and noted that the ship had developed a perceptible
pitch.

For a little while weather
he thought, with a tinge of hopefulness. Mark was a good sailor, and the prospect of an unsteady deck bothered him not at all. He looked forward to it with some anticipation; at the least, a storm might relieve the monotony of shipboard routine.

Ten more minutes of silence, and
he was lonely enough even to tackle
the professor.

"Professor MacQuane," he ventured, "is it possible to explain Einstein's Theory of Relativity to an interested layman? One reads so much about it nowadays, you know;
I'd like to get the gist of it if possible—just the general idea in a nutshell."

The professor turned a pair of beamed and chilly eyes on Mark. In deep lecture-hall tones, enunciating each syllable with wagging finger and beard, he enunciated slowly:
"Said a mathematician named Black.
'Oh, Einstein! Alas and alack!
If I go out tonight
And move faster than light,
I'll bump into myself coming back!'"

"The finger and beard coming wagging," and the professor returned serenely to his perusal of the volume.
"Wow!" thought Mark, recovering
from his astonishment. "That chair
must be hexed! First a talkative
lady who thinks in exclamation
points, and then a silent gentleman
who thinks in limericks!"

He rose and went below. Under the door of his stateroom was a radiogram folded neatly into a yellow envelope. He tore it open, and smiled as he read it. From his mother—a good scout! Of course—
John would just have arrived in Spring Brook from his fruitless
journey to the coast, with the news
of Mark's determination. It was nice of his mother to take the decision gracefully, and wire her love
and faith in him.

Scobell Continues As Liquor Director

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23.—Joseph H.
Scobell will continue as Ohio liquor director "for several weeks," Francis Poulson, Democratic state
chairman, said today.

The Cleveland man will retain his position until a decision is reached on the status of Oakley Spaght, of Akron, who has been chosen by Gov. Martin L. Davey as Scobell's successor. Spaght's eligibility has been questioned under the constitution.

Poulson, chief of the governor's patronage committee, said he was misquoted in a dispatch saying that "changes in legislation" would be sought to clear the way for Spaght to become director.

"I said there will be some changes in liquor legislation at this session of the legislature," Poulson
said. "I did not mean that the changes in legislation would be for the purpose of making Spaght eligible."

Poulson asserted that no opinion
on Spaght's status would be sought
of the attorney general.

Scobell has agreed to remain
with the liquor department in some capacity other than director, Poulson said.

Night Club Case
Under Advisement

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23.—The case
of the Hollyhock Gardens of Warren, today was taken under advisement
by the state liquor department.

Inspectors at a hearing charged that drinks were sold at a bar, that patrons were permitted to buy after 2:30 a. m., and that gambling was permitted on the Gardens' premises.

The Hollyhock has a night club
permit issued to Agostino Sansone.

"Miss—Miss Vanya, I hope you'll pardon me. I wanted to talk to you."

At that moment Spring Brook
didn't seem so objectionable. Dull, perhaps, and infernally quiet and hide-bound, but so, apparently, was even a great liner in mid-Pacific.
Perhaps the whole world had settled into a rut of drab routine; perhaps the world had spent all its adventurous energy in the war. For the first time Mark felt some qualms
as to the wisdom of his decision. He sat down in his stateroom and composed an affectionate message to his mother.

No, he decided, as he carried the
slip of paper to the radio-room,
there must be romance left somewhere on the expansive face of the world. Out over the horizon were strange volcanic islands, and palm-covered coral atolls, and beyond
these the eternal mystery of Asia,
the oriental world. He was a fool,
he told himself, to give way to homesickness on the third day away from San Francisco! Nevertheless, he sent the message.

Leaving the radio-room, he be-
thought himself of the elusive
black-haired lady of the stateroom.
Immediately his nostalgia vanished,
the uncertain weather, which doubtless affects human beings, in spite of themselves, just as it does dogs
and birds and domestic creatures,
ceased suddenly to weigh upon him,
as if the sun had emerged startlingly into a cloudless sky.

"Vanya!" he murmured to himself. "Vanya, something-or-other.
Pretty name—Vanya."

He was unconsciously directing
his steps down the companionway toward the stateroom. Without really intending it, he suddenly found himself well on his way below.

"Night as well drop in on her,"
he told himself. "She looks as if she had some kind of story about her. I'll never find it out unless I talk to her."

At the entrance he wrinkled his nose at the close smell of humanity.
"Unwashed humanity, at that,"
he thought. "Enough to make one sick!"

Indeed, the pitching of the ship
was beginning to be noticeable here
below. Mark didn't doubt that dinner would find more than one resident of the upper decks absent.

He glanced around. Fewer people visible than yesterday; beyond ques-

PROPOSES ISSUE OF BABY BONDS

New Deal Finds Itself Close To Limit For Issuing Bonds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The
New Deal, finding itself within $2-500,000,000 of the legal limit beyond which it could not issue any more bonds, sought today to have its authority to sell such securities increased by about $9,000,000,000.

At the same time, Secretary Morgenstern disclosed what he termed
a new "string on our money" bow—
a proposal that a new type of
"baby bond" be issued for the general public, including persons of moderate means.

In denominations ranging from $25 to $10,000, these bonds would be of 10 to 20-year maturity. They would be on a discount basis and would be expected to pay holders
the equivalent of between 2 and 3 per cent.

Those buying the bonds could not sell them on the market, but they could be turned in after six months
and interest up to that time would be paid. They would be issued on the first of every month.

Both proposals were laid before congress in a bill introduced by Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee.

Commenting on the proposal to extend the bond issue limit, Secretary Morgenthau stressed that there was no intention of issuing bonds
in excess of budget estimates.

Officials said the request for change in the treasury's authority
grew out of the provisions of the Second Liberty Loan act. That law placed a limit of $28,000,000,000 on the aggregate of federal bonds that might be issued.

Already $25,450,487,115 has been issued. Of this sum, almost $12-000,000,000 has been retired, but under the law no bonds can be issued in place of those retired.

Bolivar Reservoir Project Approved

CINCINNATI, Jan. 23.—Lieut.
Col. Roger G. Powell, U. S. division engineer, reported today he had received information from Washington that plans to construct the Massillon reservoir on the Tuscarawas river probably will be dropped in favor of construction of the Bolivar reservoir on Sandy Creek.

He reported the change in plans
of the Muskingum valley conservatory district, to be made by agreement between PWA officials and conservancy directors, will involve a saving which probably will be applied to channel improvements
at Massillon.

QUINCY, Mass.—When Fireman
Matthew Burns wasn't chauffeuring
for the chief or engaged in some other duty during the past 14
months he crocheted.

He was making a bed spread and
his fellow fire-laddies snickered.
When they learned his value was $500 they changed their tunes.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in

If you feel sour and sunk and the world
looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum
and expect them to make you suddenly sweet
and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food
doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels.
Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul,
skin often breaks out in pimples. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S

laxative, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing
when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

Young Not In Ohio Mayoralty Contest

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Representative Stephen M. Young (D.
Ohio) today eliminated himself
from the field of prospective candidates for the Democratic nomination for mayor of Cleveland.

"Were I to resign as congressman-at-large, Ohio taxpayers would be put to great expense to fill the vacancy at a special election," said
Young in a statement.

Another Cleveland representative, Martin L. Sweeney, whose name also has been listed in speculation over the field of mayoralty candidates
has not committed himself.

City To Toss Coin

CINCINNATI, Jan. 23.—For the first time in 20 years, the toss of a coin will decide a tie bid on purchase
of a Cincinnati city note for $1-000,000.

Councilman Willis D. Gradison
has offered to supply a 25 cent piece for the toss. Two banks have offered to lend the money, in anticipation of tax receipts, for 1 per cent interest.

The city solicitor said he thought
a flip of a coin would be legal.

STATESBORO, Ga.—Fire Chief
W. M. Hagin must have his little joke—and his men must have practice.

Clouds of black smoke caused a general turnout of the citizenry, including the fire department. They dashed to the scene—and found a
trash pile blazing in a vacant lot.
The firemen extinguished the blaze
and went back to the station.

Chief Hagin said he had ignited
the blaze to give his laddies practice. Statesboro hasn't had a fire alarm in two months.

Mrs. Sidney Mayer Speaker At Joint Meeting Of Clubs

Travelers, Music Study, Book Clubs Hear Talk On Russia

Mrs. Sidney A. Mayer, wife of the former pastor of the Methodist church in Salem, now a resident of Willoughby, Ohio, gave her impressions of Russia in her talk, "Russia As I Saw It," at a joint meeting of the Travelers, Book and Music Study clubs in the auditorium of the Public library Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. A. B. Hobson, president of the Music Study club, presided. Mrs. R. H. McConner, president of the Book club, and Mrs. L. P. Metzger, president of the Travelers club, made short addresses.

Mrs. E. W. Satterthwaite played a violin solo, Indian Love Call, accompanied by Mrs. J. F. Hunt. A

F. Hunt. A quartet, comprised of the Misses Jean Harwood, Olive Cretter, Isabelle and La Vaughn Simpson, sang two selections, Goin' Home and Lullaby and Goodnight. They were accompanied by Miss Kathryn Cesna. The concluding musical number was two piano solos, played by Mrs. J. F. Hunt, Novlette (Macdowell) and The Fountain (Charles Griffiths).

Thompson Tells Quota Club About Florida Occupations

Unusual Things Done In South Related In An Interesting Talk

When Quota club members met Tuesday evening at the Mansion house, they enjoyed a most interesting talk given by R. B. Thompson, who spent the last few years in St. Petersburg, Fla. He is now living in Salem.

Mrs. Helen Brumbaugh was chosen secretary for the coming year. The club presented its retiring president, Miss Eva Simpson, an electric clock.

The meeting was in charge of Misses Louise Goshen and Lillie Curtis. Guests included Mrs. R. B. Thompson and Mrs. McClusky of Orlando, Fla., aunt of Miss Alice Gladden.

The next meeting Feb. 5 will be held at the Mansion and will be in charge of the new president, Miss Zillah Stamp.

Mr. Thompson spoke of "Unusual Occupations in Florida," including winter production of fruits, vegetables and flowers, gathering of the sap from longleaf pine from which rosin and turpentine are made, gathering and processing Spanish moss used in the manufacture of overstuffed furniture, production of tung oil—used in paints and varnishes—shark fisheries for the hides and oil, and alligator hunting for the hides.

He also mentioned the hundreds of acres of fine watermelons grown in Jefferson county solely for the seed. But a greater part of the talk was devoted to the Greek sponge fishing industry centered at Tarpon Springs, an occupation centuries old before being established along the Gulf coast of Florida in 1873.

He described many of the interesting details of the industry, the quaint boats used by the Greek divers and their helpers, the hardships and frequent tragedies of the occupation, the sales at the Sponge Exchange when the floss comes in, and the picturesque occasions when the colony observes such festive events as Epiphany, or "Greek Cross Day," and Easter.

Responding to modern demands, he said, this ancient industry is preparing to put on the market sponges in many colors, and inventors are working on a new type of submarine boat which may be used in a sort of mass-production method of gathering sponges. Research is also working to produce artificial sponges, which may in time force this venerable occupation "back into the limbo of forgotten things."

De-Icers Add to Plane Safety

Development of a device which removes ice from planes during winter operations is regarded as another important step in insuring flying safety. The device, attached to wing edges and the edges of the tail surface, is known as a de-icer. It is a rubberized "shoe", made of tubes of specially knitted fabric covered with high test wax-finished rubber. Air is pumped into the tubes so that they inflate and deflate alternately, cracking any ice that is formed.

WALTER CONNOLLY, star of many stage successes and considered
one of the screen's most gifted character actors, is starred in Thursday's film, a new production
entitled "Father Brown, Detective."
This new screen personality promises to be as popular as its former fictitious colleagues, including such sleuths as Philo Vance and Charlie Chan. He is Gilbert K.
Chesterton's short story hero.
"Father Brown," Connolly, playing
the priest, brings a new note to detective story films. Despite the calm background of the character himself, the picture is full of exciting
incidents, adventure and a good share of comedy.

STATE'S RELIEF
IS SUMMARIZED

More Than Seven Million Dollars Worth Has
Been Distributed

COLUMBUS, Jan. 23.—The state relief commission said today that federal surplus commodities worth $7,072,708 have been distributed to Ohio's needy since late in 1933.
The commission estimated the bulk of the goods—foodstuffs, cottons and textiles—at 2,493 car loads.
They were distributed from warehouses in Toledo, Cleveland, Canton, Columbus and Washington Court House.

Reviewing last year's work, the commission announced its commodity distribution department has purchased for indigent families 5-370 head of beef cattle, 79 carloads of eggs, 900 cows and approximately 1,000,000 tons of coal. Last summer, the commission said, when nearly 101,000 head of cattle were brought into the state from drought stricken areas, a cattle ranch at Delaware fed an average of 15,000
cattle daily, all of which were slaughtered and distributed among relief clients.

An important phase of its work,
the commission reported, was the distribution of 58 carloads of cotton and 37 comfort and mattress-sewing centers. The centers, employing 500 men and 5,000 women, have produced 35,000 mattresses with the labor cost averaging $3.25 a suit. The bedding was given over to families on relief.

Ida May Stull Is Going Back To Her
Work In Coal Mine

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Jan.
23.—Ida May Stull is going back to work in her coal mine.
Attorney General John W.
Bricker ruled that women are not prohibited from working
in coal mines they own.
Miss Stull was arrested last summer by state mine inspectors because she mined coal in violation of Ohio mine laws
which forbid a woman from working in a mine.
When Bricker's opinion was received, she said she would start work at once.
"I have to earn a living you
see," she said.

Babe's Heart Quits
Beating 20 Minutes
Before Birth; Lives

MALONE, N. Y., Jan. 23.—Although his heart ceased beating 20
minutes before birth, a Malone
baby is alive today and is considered normal.

The child, born at Alice Hyde Memorial hospital January 9, was taken home yesterday by his mother, Mrs. James K. Kish. Hospital
officials said that so far as they knew it was the first case in medical annals.

Hospital attendants described the case as a breach presentation, one of the most dangerous both for mother and child. After several hours of labor, the heart of the baby disappeared, and 20 minutes
before the birth it was found that the cord had ceased to pulsate.

The baby was delivered and adrenalin was injected directly into the heart muscle. Ten seconds
later the heart began to beat spasmodically.

A tank was filled with water at a temperature of 100 degrees, Fahrenheit, and artificial respiration was employed while the child's body
was immersed. Twenty-eight minutes later the baby gave its first voluntary gasp.

Within an hour the baby was breathing normally and has continued in good health, gaining nine ounces.

Double Bill Tonight

AN entertaining bill that combines romance and comedy is the double feature program at the State this evening. Feature No. one is "Rabbit," the screen adaptation of the Sinclair Lewis novel. Guy Kib-bee is a good
choice for the title
role, and Aline MacMahon, who played his wife in
"Big Hearted Herbert," is once
more cast in that role.

The irony, the dramatic tense-
ness and the humor of the book
are retained in
the screen version.
The second feature this evening
is a romantic comedy co-starring
the Czech star of so many hits, Francis Lederer, with Ginger Hog-
ans. The film, "Romance in Manhattan," is a human, appealing picture telling of the struggles and sorrows of a young immigrant boy
who looks upon America as the land of his dreams and works and lives to remain here only to have
it learned that he came into the country illegally.

His one friend has been Sylvia,
a chorus girl out of work, who has notions entirely too high but a heart big enough to see the genuineness of the Czech boy. Through her he gets his first job and begins
to save the money necessary to make him a legal resident of this country. But just as things begin to look happier fate steps in and makes life seem pretty gloomy for
the would-be optimistic pair.

CAPTURED AFTER THRILLING CHASE

Auto Crashes Into Building After
Bullet Pierces Tire;
Thief Is Shot

CLEVELAND, Jan. 23.—A man
who gave his name as Arthur Fulton, 23, was shot and captured today after a 75-mile an hour chase down Mayfield road hill.

Detectives Edgar Clark and Ted Winstrom of Cleveland Heights said they gave chase when they sighted Fulton in a stolen automobile.

As the detectives gained on the fugitive, Winstrom fired a shot which pierced a rear tire on the fugitive's automobile. The car reared from the road and plunged
into the front of a restaurant.
Fulton was thrown out. A bullet from Clark's gun struck him in the leg as he tried to flee between houses.

The detectives said Fulton admitted a long string of automobile and accessory thefts. Under another name, he had been proba-tioned last October following a reformatory sentence for automobile
theft.

Bits of News From
The World Of
Athletics

None of his adventures in congress or as national amateur heavyweight boxing champion brought Senator Warren Barbour, New Jersey Republican, the thrill he got as a belligerent timekeeper during the Willard-Dempsey fight. The young and tigerish Dempsey rained damaging blows on the body of the champion under the broiling sun that day at Toledo 16 years ago. Old Jess fell to the floor. A slightly deaf referee, Pecora, began counting the fatal 10. The bell rang, ending the first round but Pecora didn't hear it.

Thousands of fans were on their feet yelling and shouting their approval of this youth who had cut down the massive Willard.

"No one paid me any mind as I signaled frantically that the round had ended," that the bell had saved Willard," Barbour recalled. "The crowd was in an uproar, handlers had sprung into the ring to dance joyously around Dempsey. I might well have hushed and let the bout do down in the records as a one-round knockout, but I was determined Willard should have the advantage the bell had given him.

"I kept yelling until I caught Pecora's attention. There was a loud squawk from the Dempsey bunch but I stood by my guns and the fight was continued."

Pecora had told Barbour he was deaf and had given him a whistle to blow. "But there was nothing in the rules about the whistle blowing, so I wouldn't blow it," the senator explained.

State Golf Meet

Harold W. Nicholas, president of the Ohio Golf association, announced today that the annual Ohio State Amateur championship will be contested at Cincinnati the week of June 24.

He said the tournament, over the Kenwood Country club links, will be the first state amateur championships there in a decade.

Tilden Speaks

Big Bill Tilden, 42 years "young" and still knowing a trick or two about tennis, yesterday described Ellsworth Vines as the "greatest player in the world today and probably the greatest player the game has ever seen."

"There isn't a player in the game today that can touch Vines and without a doubt he's the greatest player in the world today," Tilden said. "It's impossible to really compare a player of today with one of yesterday, because the game progresses and the greatest player of today really should be the greatest the game has ever seen."

"I dislike trying to compare Vines with Cochet or stating that Lenglen was better than Vines and I think she was—but I do think that in all probability there never was a player better than Vines."

After Vines, Tilden listed the following players as the best he has ever met: Henri Cochet, Bill Johnston, Hans Nusslein, Karl Kozeluh, Norman Brooks, Gottfried von Cramm, R. Norris Williams, Jean Borotra and Rene La Coste. He made it plain that he was not listing them in order of their ability.

Tom Angley, Columbus Red Bird catcher, has been sold to Houston of the Texas league, a St. Louis Cardinal farm, George M. Trautman, president, disclosed.

Construction of 500 enclosed baseball parks to spur employment and professional baseball has been proposed by Joe P. Carr, promotional director of organized baseball and president of the National professional football league. The project, Carr said, has the endorsement of baseball men throughout the country, and would be financed from the $4,000,000 public works fund asked of congress.

Barney Ross Meets Frankie Klick For Bout at Miami, Fla.

The Two Main Attractions On Tomorrow's "Card of Champions" Weigh In At 137 Each; Both Max and Buddy Baer To Exhibit

(By Associated Press)
MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 23.—Trained to a fine edge for their title bout tomorrow night, Barney Ross, Chicago's champion of the lightweights, and Frankie Klick, the San Francisco lad who wants to be champion, took things easy today.

The two main attractions on the "card of champions" weighed about 137 each yesterday. The fight is for 10 rounds at 140 pounds.

Meanwhile, the boys in the office repeated their predictions that the fight will be "quite a sight."

McQuilken Gets 28 Points When Mullins Flash

Riding on the crest of glory, McQuilken, Mullins flashed a threat, was at his height last night as the Mullins team walloped the Old Timers in a Class "A" league tilt, 47 to 35. And McQuilken—oh, yes,—he flipped 28 of the winning points by sinking 14 field goals.

The Saxons completely outclassed the Smith basketballers in the other league game, winning 31-17. Fullerton led the winners with four buckets and an extra toss for nine points. Pauline also registered nine on three field goals and three fouls.

Columbiana Will Force Comeback Against Lisbon

COLUMBIANA, Jan. 23.—Columbiana High school basketball players will attempt to get back in the winning column after losing two straight games, when Lisbon High plays here Friday night. Lisbon is experiencing an off season, having been beaten by most teams in the district, but previous records mean nothing relative to the form Jimmy Willis' lads have been showing the last three weeks.

Coach Wland changed his lineup Saturday night against Cortland when Vaughn was unable to play due to an injured ankle, but the only player showing good marksmanship was a freshman, Fisher, who played the greater part of both the varsity and reserve games, making nine baskets in all.

In the varsity game he scored 13 points, more than the balance of the team together.

Holding a 16-8 lead at half time against Cortland, the locals were only able to score 9 points in the second half while the visitors made 21 points. The Reserves, as usual, played a good game to win 23-21.

Last year Lisbon beat the red and white 36 to 11 on their own floor.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—It would take $4,500,000 right now, more money later, and 12 to 15 years more of patience and effort to put the United States in a position where the future will know hunting as the past knew it and the present does not.

That was the opinion of J. N. (Ding) Darling, chief of the U. S. biological survey, retired cartoonist from Des Moines, Ia., and the most milant and active of all sportsmen in the effort to save America's rapidly diminishing game supply.

Darling draws a picture of present day conditions with words as sharp as the strokes of his famous sketching pens.

"Inadvertently, and purely through lack of foresight and planning, the government has been put in the position of the greatest offender among the exterminators of game, and the gradual ruin of the hunting and trapping industry, a $750,000,000 a year proposition," he says.

"I have $8,500,000 to work with in the biological survey, but the job of every penny of that is defined. Of that $8,500,000 is for the purchase of submarginal lands, forestry and other things, and $2,500,000 for the creation of jobs. We have options on or have bought 17,000,000 acres of land, every bit of it former natural breeding and nesting grounds for waterfowl, land drained for irrigation projects that failed.

"But not one thin dime of that money has been authorized for the returning of that land to what it is

Battling Bishops of Ohio Wesleyan End Winning Streak of Cincinnati Bearcats To Tune of 41 to 39

(By Associated Press)

The young men who play basketball for Ohio Wesleyan and are called the "Bishops" were quite rude to the "Bearcats" of the university of Cincinnati last night.

The Bishops defeated the Bearcats 41 to 39, nudging Cincinnati from the top of the Ohio Conference column of standings. It was the first time in 17 games that Cincinnati has been defeated.

Anteing Cincinnati center, who had an average of 11.5 points a game until last night, was able to make only 16 points last night. His opponent, Stark of Wesleyan, made 14. Two overtime periods were needed to decide the game.

Perhaps the next fastest college game in Ohio last night was the Wittenberg-Dayton contest at Dayton which Wittenberg won 35 to 31. Wittenberg took a short lead early in the game and Dayton spent the entire evening trying unsuccessfully to overcome the disadvantage.

Bowling Green used approximately the same technique at Ada in winning from Ohio Northern 30 to 22. Bowling Green took an early lead which dwindled to one point at half time (13 to 12) and guarded it zealously.

Oberlin handed Oberlin an unpleasant surprise in the form of a 35 to 29 defeat and added to this the indignity of letting the substitutes finish the game. In the first 12 minutes of the second half, Oberlin scored only one point.

Muskingum defeated Kenyon 37 to 26 at New Concord, after dailying about most of the game during which time the lead changed constantly. The score was 24 to 22 when Muskingum finally stepped ahead and stayed there.

Ellsworth Vines
PRO NET KING
Greatest Tennis Player in the World
TILDEN SAYS THAT VINES NOW HAS NO WEAKNESS

HALP! I'M SHOT!
MUSSEIN WAS BLASTED OFF THE COURT BY VINES' SPEED!

PERRY
SOME SAY PERRY COULDN'T WIN A SET FROM VINES NOW!!

Who is the best tennis player in the world? Don't say Fred Perry, because, according to those that should know, you will be wrong. These experts will explain that the head man of the net racket is really none other than our old friend, Ellsworth Vines.

The tall pine from Pasadena is now touring the United States with Bill O'Brien's three-ring tennis circus, playing against Stofen and Lett and, of course, Tilden. Vines is very good indoors, but they say he is even better outdoors, as he reached his peak against Hans Nusslein in the pro championships last summer.

The gaunt cannonader of the courts blasted Nusslein into defeat with a withering fire of unreturnable shots, so that Henrie said afterwards, "How can you hit 'em when you can't even see 'em!"

Bill Tilden goes so far as to say that Vines is the greatest player of all times—yes, even better than all will himself at his best. "Ellie" is said to have no weakness now, his backhand being as devastating as his explosive driving shots.

Inaugural Plans For '35 Baseball Season Complete

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Navin Field in Detroit, where the curtain fell on the world series and the 1934 baseball season, will see the opening of the 1935 major league campaign on April 16.

The opening games also will be fired in St. Louis, Washington, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Chicago.

The opening day programs for the two major circuits were announced yesterday by Ford C. Frick, National League president, and Will Harridge of the American league, in advance of the full schedules, which will not be approved until next month.

Detroit's American league champions will play host to the Chicago White Sox, while the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals will open on the road at Chicago. Other national league opening games are Pittsburgh at Cincinnati, New York at Boston, and Brooklyn at Philadelphia.

In the junior circuit the Boston Red Sox face the Yankees at New York, the Cleveland Indians visit the St. Louis Browns and the Philadelphia Athletics travel to Washington for a game with the Senators.

Quakers Facing Heavy Weekend

A heavy weekend assignment awaits Coach Herb Brown's High school cagers this week, playing East Palestine here on Friday night and trekking to Massillon on Saturday to tackle the highly touted Washington High Tigers.

The brown and white will come here as the underdogs. At Massillon, however, we'll flip a coin.

Reserved seat sale for the Friday night game went on sale here today at Rich's newstand and Lease's drug store. H. C. Warner of Warren will officiate at the Palestine game, the preliminary of which will start at 7:30.

O. V. Boone of Canton will referee the Salem-Massillon game, starting at 7:15 p. m. No reserved seats will be available at Massillon, Faculty Manager Fred Cope said today. A bus for students and parents will leave the high school here Saturday charging 40 cents for a round trip.

President Fuchs To Tell All On Boston Braves

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—President Emil Fuchs of the much dogged Boston Braves is going to tell all. Smarting under the unfavorable publicity received by the Redskins since the subject of dog racing caused a panic in the National league, he has decided to discard the policy of silence and give his club's dire financial problems a public airing.

It came about through an article read by Fuchs and Charles F. Adams, vice-president of the club, in which it was suggested it might have been a good idea to take the Boston sports writers into their confidence before trying to solve the club's problems. The club owners agreed.

"In that spirit," Fuchs said, "Mr. Adams and I will call a meeting with the newspapermen within a few days and go over the entire situation frankly. All I can say pending this gathering is that I shall request that any further judgement be deferred until after that meeting."

TRACES LADDER WOOD TO HOME

Witness Says Board Fits
Perfectly Into Hole
In His Attic

"He is not qualified," he cried. "We saw there is no such animal known among men as a wood expert."

The state continued its interruption of the ladder testimony by calling Inspector John J. Lyons of the New York police to identify a piece of cheap writing paper found in Hauptmann's home after Hauptmann's arrest, and recalling New Jersey Trooper Lewis Bornmann to relate the details of a search made in Hauptmann's attic.

Prosecutors had announced previously they would show the paper was the same kind as that used in ransom notes.

Finds Missing Board
Bornmann testified he found a board missing in the attic and found traces of sawdust under it. It is a contention of the state that Hauptmann used the missing board for an upright in the kidnap ladder.

Charles W. Enkler, a New York police department carpenter, who has also testified, was recalled for his story of the attic investigation of the Bronx home.

He said he accompanied Bornmann Sept. 23, 1934 when they went into the attic.

Enkler said Bornmann drew his attention to the missing 8 foot section in the flooring.

The slow spoken carpenter laid the ladder "rail" down on the jury box rail and showed how he had matched the nail holes in that board with the nail holes in the floor beams where the board was missing in the attic.

Enkler said he discovered sawdust on the ceiling plaster beneath the attic floor, at the end of the board, now produced in court. In the adjoining floor board, he said, was a short saw cut directly above the little pile of sawdust.

Girl Waving Tiny Kerchief, Halts Train, Saves Boy

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23.—All 16-year-old Dorothy Bartons had for a flag was a tiny wisp of handkerchief, but she saved it lustily and the train ground to a stop just in front of Bobby Dabrick.

Bobby, 7, was crossing the tracks near his home in Elizabeth yesterday when he fell and caught his foot.

Dorothy saw him and she also saw the freight train rushing on.

"Bobby," she yelled, "hurry. I can't," came the boy's call. "I'm fast."

The girl darted back and began to wave with the little handkerchief at the engineer. He saw the fluttering signal and set the airbrakes.

Then Dorothy ran back to Bobby and pulled him free as the locomotive stopped not 10 feet away.
